In Lebanon

Fierce Battle Rages

TRIPOLI, Lebanon (AP) — Fighting raged for hours here Thursday but rebel leaders in the north indicated the real offensive against President Camille Chamoun's government is yet to come.

The fighting in battle-torn Tripoli was bitter but could not be considered the major rebel offensive predicted by Chamoun.

Rebel leader Rashid Karami declined to say whether he and fellow rebels elsewhere in Lebanon plan any sort of separate government.

Karami said UN observers are welcome, with limitations, in his area.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) — Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold returned from Lebanon Thursday, apparently convinced that a United Nations observation team can meet the needs of the revolt-torn country without the dispatch of an international military force.

What Margaret Will See

Beautiful, fresh-scented summer blooms from Government House gardens will fill Princess Margaret's suite in the Empress Hotel. Here, Mrs. F. M. Ross, wife of the lieutenant-governor, shows Colonist photographer Jim Ryan the sitting room of the regal suite.

'Fit for a Princess'

It's Elegant, Luxurious And Good Place to Sleep

By EILEEN LEAROYD

To Princess Margaret, who has lived all her life surrounded by the royal trappings of castles and palaces, I don't suppose the regal suite in the Empress Hotel will remain etched forever in her mind as a place of astonishing splendor.

But to ordinary mortals such as I, the suite appeared not only elegant, but a good place to sleep.

And if I were a spoiled robber baron, as I stole away in the morning I think I would take with me the newly-commissioned portraits of the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh which hang in the dining room. And also the sterling plate which graces the oak table.

That's quite a lot of plate as the table extends to seat 16.

Mrs. Frank M. Ross, wife of the lieutenant-governor, arranged a preview of the temporary "Government House" suite yesterday afternoon. It contains an entrance hall, a sitting room, bedroom, dining room and small kitchen.

This is Princess Margaret's personal suite, but "wings" open out at each side to accommodate her ladies-in-waiting and secretary. About 21 other rooms are reserved for 18 footmen, dressers, hairdressers, detectives and secretaries.

Her ladies in waiting are the Hon. Iris Peake, MVO, and Lady Elizabeth Cavendish. Her secretary is the Hon. Francis Legh Parr of England. Mrs. Ross and her equerry is Maj. John Griffin.

As we walked from room to room several things stood out. The enormous oil portraits, for example, done by Arthur Griffin.

Over one of the desks hangs a motto by Elbert Hubbard: "An ounce of loyalty is worth a pound of cleverness."

Very true, and I state here that I am a loyal Royalist. And even anyone who wasn't, would just have to behave loyally in this suite. For looking down upon you from every wall are portraits of Queen Mary, King George V, more of Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip, King George VI and the Queen Mother.

Everywhere the Princess looks she will be reminded of authority.

It is assumed that the Princess will use the main entrance of the hotel, but at least one elevator will be reserved for her exclusive use.

Many people have asked where the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Ross will go. The answer is they have moved up one floor, immediately above the regal suite.

There is already an air of expectancy hovering over the Empress Hotel. The long hall on the first floor leading to the regal suite is a new, soft pink.

I couldn't find Billy Tickle or his orchestra. But perhaps he was busy practicing calypsos, which the Princess likes to hear.

All the furniture in the suite is black oak, including the Princess's bed. The bed, I thought was rather narrow, but then she is petite, they say. By the bed are placed a volume of Mark Twain, "First Lady of the South," "The Scapegoat," and B.C.'s official centennial anthology.

explained that these will hang in the entrance hall to the new Government House.

There is a radio in every room and a large TV set in the sitting room.

Diplomatic Corps 'Biggest Headache'

OTTAWA (UPI) — Members of the capital's diplomatic corps aren't being invited to the Ottawa winter fair because they're "the biggest headache in the city."

Frank Ryan, director of the four-day annual exhibition, said, "They're so jealous of each other they can get into the worst arguments if somebody steps ahead of someone else on the way to Rideau Hall."

Fair general manager J. K. Clarke said, "Past experience has shown that it doesn't always work."

Bridge Disaster Sequel

Diver's Drowning Cancels Attempt To Recover Men

VANCOUVER (CP) — The coroner's office Thursday night issued a ban against further skin diver attempts to recover bodies from the wreckage of the collapsed Second Narrows Bridge.

Leonard K. Mott, a professional skin diver from suburban Burnaby, was missing and feared drowned Thursday while searching the underwater wreckage for the last two bodies of 18 men killed in the bridge disaster June 17.

CALLS IT OFF

He had been working separately from two fire department divers cutting away wreckage from the channel in Burrard Inlet.

Immediately after Mott's disappearance, Dominion Bridge Co., which held the main contract on the projected $23,000,000 span, said it will make no further attempts to recover bodies.

A company spokesman said he is sure the families of the missing men would not want any further loss of life, adding the company was "very shaken" by the tragedy.

BAN IMPOSED

Later coroner Glen McDonald placed an official ban on recovery attempts.

All voluntary diving operations are suspended until a master diver can be placed in charge, he said. "Loss of life in recovering the dead persons is entirely unwarranted."

How Many Deaths?

B.C. motor vehicles superintendent George Lindsay yesterday warned holiday drivers to be careful on Dominion Day weekend.

In the period June 29 to July 2, 1956, 10 persons met violent deaths in traffic accidents, he said. Last year, between June 28 and July 1, the death toll was reduced to two.

"From June 28 to July 1, 1958, how many will be killed?" Mr. Lindsay asked. "The toll recorded is up to you. Don't keep a tight schedule. Have time to enjoy your holiday."

Giant Jet Crashes; 13 Die

WESTOVER AIR FORCE BASE, Mass. (AP)—Thirteen persons, including six reporters, were killed early today when the third of four giant jet tankers attempting record hops between the United States and England crashed shortly after take-off.

The plane — a KC-135 jet tanker—crashed and burst into flames about 1½ miles from the end of the runway. The first two planes took off virtually on schedule starting at 11.52 p.m. EDT Thursday night.

The air force said that five crew members, six reporters and two representatives of the National Aeronautics Association were killed.

The civilian dead were identified by the air force as men from Associated Press, United Press International, U.S. News and World Report and Time Magazine.

Pensioners Cut —Not Beaudoin

OTTAWA (CP) — Harold Winch, CCF MP, referred to former Commons Speaker Rene Beaudoin as a man who is drawing a parliamentary pension in the United States yet "cannot return to Canada without facing a criminal charge."

The member for Vancouver East during a Commons speech contrasted Mr. Beaudoin's position with Canadian old age pensioners who lose the pension if they remain outside Canada beyond six months. He did not mention the ex-Speaker by name.

Mr. Beaudoin recently obtained a Nevada divorce from his first wife, whom he married in 1939. Soon after the divorce he married Alice M. Outram of Ottawa, former RCAF public relations officer.

After the second marriage he was quoted as telling reporters he will never return to Canada until the Nevada divorce is legally recognized in this country.

Judge Ponders 'Quash' Motion

Crucial Ruling Today

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Sommers bribery-conspiracy trial reached another crucial point Thursday when the presiding judge reserved decision on a defence motion to quash the 25 charges against the eight accused on the ground the accusations were "faulty."

Mr. Justice J. O. Wilson is expected to make his ruling today. Should he rule for the defence, the case against former lands and forest minister Robert Sommers, three other individuals and four companies will be over—after 30 days of argument.

But if the judge rules against the defence, the battery

Tense Strike Talks Continuing Today

Tense talks aimed at ending the seamen's strike against the CPR's coast steamship service, continue today in Vancouver.

Day-long discussions yesterday between federal mediator Eric Taylor and representatives of the CPR, the Seafarers' International Union, the National Association of Marine Engineers, and the Canadian Merchant Service Guild, failed to resolve the dispute.

"We covered an awful lot of territory," said Mr. Taylor. "The company and all the unions have showed excellent co-operation.

"But we haven't found a formula that is fully acceptable to both parties yet," he said.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

BILL is a writer who tries out his stories on anybody he can get in a corner.

It's the end of a party when Bill comes in the room with the fat briefcase which he seems to carry everywhere.

People run for the exits. Sometimes a few people stay where they are—near-sighted folk who don't identify Bill until he is upon them, or strangers in town.

Bill opens his briefcase, extracts a sheaf of manuscripts, and hands one to each person.

"Read that," he commands.

And for the next 10 or 15 minutes there is silence in the room as Bill's victims drag their way through 3,000 words apiece of muddy prose.

He must be a prolific writer. Even if—by a stroke of luck—he manages to impound 15 or 20 people in a room, he seems to have enough manuscripts for everybody.

Then he hovers around each of them in turn, saying nothing but trying to read their thoughts from scowls, coughs and frowns.

As he scans all the faces, he looks more and more crestfallen, because he fancies that he is picking up signals of scorn and condemnation.

But he doesn't give up hope. He leans toward people, as though trying to influence their judgment with body English.

At last the critics reach the end of his works, and begin delivering their judgments. "Hmmm," says one man as he hands back the manuscripts, trying to convey the idea of depth and mystery in one syllable without telling any lies.

"Yeah, unique," says another. But there is one man who wants to make sure he is never subjected to this ordeal again.

"Do you really want my candid opinion?" he demands.

"Oh yes, that's why I gave it to you," says Bill, who is so touchy about his stories that he goes into a sulk at any sign of hostile criticism. "Don't be afraid of hurting my feelings," he adds.

"All right, then," says the brutal reader. "I think they're gosh awful."

And so they are. But this man won't ever be asked to read them again. Only polite and tactful people are burdened with the task.

VIPs Have to Take Their Chances—Fulton

OTTAWA (CP)—Justice Minister Fulton yesterday described as apparently "greatly exaggerated" a report that American guards without warrants searched all private houses along the route taken by then U.S. president Harry S. Truman in an Ottawa visit after the Second World War.

He said there is "no likelihood of any such event taking place in connection with . . . any future visit by any head of state who visits Canada."

New Flags for Princess

Red, white and blue nylon pennants will be purchased by the Greater Victoria centennial committee to deck downtown lamp standards in time for Princess Margaret's visit.

The banners will help replace plastic flags put up earlier this year and "wiped out by two windstorms."

The committee authorized the spending of $800 "plus tax" by the decorations committee for the pennants and for 300 plastic flags similar to those blown down before.

Decorations committee chairman Bart Carson said the original plastic flags had been "put up too early," but the centennial committee had wanted them up in time for the first event of the centennial year.

The money was transferred from the promotions and events funds after the decorations' committee, plagued by deflating balloons and wind-wrecked flags, said its funds had been exhausted.

NEW YORK—Drama critic Brooks Atkinson of the New York Times says the production of Much Ado About Nothing will "go down in the record book as one of the finest achievements" of the Stratford Shakespearean Festival.

'Pinballs' Creep Back?

Are pinball machines creeping back into Victoria?

Ald. Elmer McEwen suggested that owners of pinball machines should be required to pay trades licences.

City solicitor T. P. O'Grady, recalling that council had ended the trades licencing of pinball machines to avoid embarrassment when owners of illegal machines were being prosecuted about a year ago, said that if the machines were coming back, the question should be referred to the police commission.

But Mayor Scurrah said any pinball machines in the city at present were purely for amusement. His information, he said, was that none were "paying off" any more.

Saanich Men Get Go-By From Pearkes

A Vancouver man has been promoted and a Winnipeg man appointed to the personal staff of Defence Minister George R. Pearkes of Saanich. Richard H. N. Roberts, 26, of Vancouver, was promoted to the $7,000 a year job as the minister's executive assistant and Bernard C. Hofley of Winnipeg will succeed M. Roberts as private secretary.

The executive assistant position became vacant following the resignation of Edward Larsen, 33, who will become headmaster of Shawnigan Lake School.

Defence Awaits Ruling

of six defending lawyers will immediately move a new motion to dismiss the charges "for lack of evidence."

Main argument for and against quashing of the charges revolves around the question: Is a minister of the Crown an official of the government.

The defence—citing cases back to the time of Henry VIII and beyond—submitted a minister is not an official. Prosecutor Victor Dryer brought close to 25 law books into court in the afternoon to argue that a minister is an official.

At one point during defence argument on the quashing motion D. McK. Brown argued that the accused should get the benefit of the doubt, termed the case one "that has brought the administration of justice into disrepute."

Mr. Justice Wilson jerked forward in his chair and said, "Why . . . what do you mean? . . . I'm conducting this case you know."

Mr. Brown apologized. He said his reference had been to "the history of the case in the last two years."

Mr. Justice Wilson outlined for the jury the effect of having the indictment put under the old Criminal Code but said all the evidence they had heard to date would be just as applicable to the new charges.

He then told the jurors they could be excused until next Thursday while legal argument proceeded on points of law, but said any who wanted to attend could do so.

Sommers, who resigned his portfolio in 1956, but still is a member of the legislature, is charged with accepting bribes as "an official of the government." The others are charged with giving bribes to him as "an official of the government."

Boost in Gas Bills Faces Canadians

MURRAY BAY, Que. (CP)—Canadian consumers will likely be faced with higher gas bills in the future.

This became evident during the annual meeting of the Canadian Gas Association where roughly 250 representatives of the gas producers, pipeline companies, utilities and appliance manufacturers have been discussing problems which have to be faced in the development of this country's fledgling natural gas industry.

The increased cost to the consumer will almost inevitably result from a drive by oil companies for higher natural gas prices at the wellhead.

This drive is being resisted by Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Limited. In gas supply contracts negotiated to date the pipeline company has agreed to pay producers prices ranging from 10 to 13¾ cents a thousand cubic feet at the wellhead.

These were described as "bargain basement prices" by executive vice-president E. D. Loughney of the British American Oil Company Limited, which owns some of the largest natural gas fields in Alberta. He said these rates provide companies with returns of "little more than break-even point in most fields."

Summit Meeting for Little People

ASSINIBOIA, Sask. (CP) — A United Nations peace conference—a summit meeting of all countries' leaders—was proposed last night by Hazen Argue, CCF House leader in the Commons.

Mr. Argue, speaking in his home constituency, said he advocates a summit conference of major powers if that is the only means of resolving basic problems. But an Assembly conference would be better.

The people of Canada, Ceylon, Belgium or any other smaller nation "have no less an interest in world peace than the people of the so-called great powers." Indeed their interest was greater because war could very well mean the end of their existence as nations and people.

"The peoples of the world cannot continue indefinitely to devote such a large proportion of their production to defence expenditures without the risk of some accident plunging the world into war."

Mr. Argue said the Canadian government should start now to play a leading role toward such a conference to "end the years of drift and indecision."

To Chase Refugee

Reds 'Invade' Shetland Isle

SHETLAND ISLANDS (UPI)—Tough British Shetland Islanders for the past two days foiled two waves of "invaders" from a Soviet fishing fleet who tried to track down an Estonian refugee seeking freedom in the West.

About 30 shouting Russians from two boats swarmed ashore on the British soil, 120 miles northeast of Scotland, and chased the fugitive across a moor until an islander spirited him into hiding.

Three more boatloads of Russians steamed into Lerwick harbor yesterday and their captains demanded to see the man. Chief Bailiff Robert Blance and police officials ordered them to leave the island.

"They'll kill me, if you send me back," the refugee, identified as Erich Teayn from the Soviet-swallowed Baltic state of Estonia told British police.

Teayn gave himself up to the authorities Thursday morning and was kept in protective custody in the town's little police station until officials in London decided his fate.

The foreign office in London was considering an official protest to Moscow against the violation of British territory.

Home secretary R. A. Butler said "the question of protest will arise when we have concluded our investigations." He added that the Russians who had "landed illegally" have "now gone away."

Butler told the House that Teayn came ashore in the Shetland Islands from the Russian fishing vessel Ukraina, one of three Soviet trawlers anchored in a bay at Walls.

"He made his way to a crofter's (tenant farmer's) house and indicated he did not want to go back to the Russian vessel. He was followed . . . a party of Russians, said to number about 30, who landed from two small boats in pursuit of him," Butler said.

"He was taken into custody for interrogation under the aliens order. Three Russians subsequently called at Lerwick police station and sought access to him.

"This was refused," Butler said.

Officers Expel 'Raider'

LONDON (Reuters)—An Oxford student who sneaked into a United States atom-bomber base in Britain has been expelled from the university officer training corps.

Paul Focke, 27, has been ordered to go back to the base at Brise Norton and apologize.

Focke claimed he adopted an American accent to enter the base in a British armored car and could have "shot up" planes inside.

Impounded 10 Years 'New' Car Returned

MINEOLA, N.Y. (UPI) — Walter Michalowski, 28, won a court decision yesterday that included $6,253.34 in cash and a Cadillac which he bought for $4,000 in 1948, and had been driven only 50 miles when he was arrested on a charge of stealing it.

He finally won a 10-year court battle to recover the car. State Supreme Court ordered the county to pay Michalowski $3,800 in depreciation and $2,453.34 in interest for the 10 years his car sat shiny and idle in a garage. It was towed to Michalowski's home.

Elevator Suit Defence:

'Flaw Undetectable'

Written arguments will be presented by counsel to conclude a damage suit heard yesterday in B.C. Supreme Court here.

Ronald John Craker of Houston, B.C., a guide for big game hunters in the northern part of the province, is seeking damages from the Strathcona Hotel in Victoria because of injuries he says were suffered in the fall of an elevator from the fourth to the main floor of the hotel.

Mr. Craker told Mr. Justice A. D. Macfarlane he was hurled into a corner of the elevator in the "free fall," sustaining injuries to his shoulder which caused pains in the neck and head. These pains, he said, prevented him from working as a guide.

The accident occurred last Sept. 8, while Mr. Craker was in Victoria on holiday.

His work, Mr. Craker said, involved on occasion the carrying of 100-pound loads on his back for as much as four or five hours at a time.

Mr. Craker was represented by W. Berkeley Monteith, while George Gregory appeared for the hotel.

Mr. Gregory introduced technical witnesses for the defence, who told the court that the fall of the elevator was due to an inherent metallic flaw which could not have been detected in normal maintenance.

Before it was agreed to submit written argument in the case, Mr. Monteith requested that the court sit late to conclude it.

"No, I can't do that," said Mr. Justice Macfarlane. "I have been sitting every day and working every Sunday for weeks . . . It is too much. There isn't time to complete judgments and then there is criticism on that score."

$25 Assault Fine For 'Private Eye'

A Victoria private investigator was fined $25 in city police court yesterday for common assault on the wife of a client, last May 10.

Mrs. Edith Vera Lanchick, Albany Hotel, 1021 Government, told the court that Robert Adrian, 5229 Cordova Bay, who told her he'd been employed by her husband, came to her room at about midnight May 10, knocked at the door and, when she opened it, hurled her across the room from the door to her bed.

She said she sustained bruises above the elbows and an injured wrist.

Hotel manager Gordon Laird told of hearing screams for help and going to Mrs. Lanchick's room. There he said he saw accused holding Mrs. Lanchick by the arm on the bed.

Accused, who pleaded not guilty, denied touching the complainant.

Magistrate Henry C. Hall said there was no denial of Mr. Laird's evidence of the screaming and what he saw, but noted that no complaint had been filed until May 26.

"Because of this, I don't propose to treat the matter as other than a minor assault."

Archibald Albert Marion, 1673 Richardson, was fined $250 when he pleaded guilty in Saanich court to driving while impaired. He was remanded to July 3 for a probation report on disposition of his driver's licence.

Court was told a car driven by accused had hit another while turning at Cedar Hill and Cedar Hill Crossroad. A doctor subsequently ruled him impaired.

Walter Mothersole, 822 Ralph, found guilty last week of violating conditions of a suspended sentence, was given one month in jail yesterday by Magistrate Henry C. Hall.

Accused in an earlier trial had been ordered to keep the peace, especially with regard to his wife, and, said the magistrate, had "broken his parole."

Towards Saner Taxation

LEFT virtually defenceless against the punishing onslaught of inflation which each year piles higher the cost of local government, the municipalities have understandably become pessimistic about prospects of realistic assistance from the senior governments, least of all from Ottawa. A gleam of light has appeared on the horizon, however, reflected from Finance Minister Fleming's budget. There is something in it for them.

Since taking office Mr. Fleming has been whittling away at a variety of anomalies in the federal taxation system inherited from the Liberal administration. Those to benefit from this revision of policy have been individuals for the most part; but in the budget for 1958-59 there is a gesture of recognition of the difficulties confronting municipalities in the proposal to relieve them of federal sales tax on such purchases as fire-fighting equipment, culvert pipes and other materials for drainage and sewerage systems.

Individually and through their organizations the municipalities fought for relief from this imposition for many years, but the Liberal government stubbornly refused to budge. It would not acknowledge the manifest injustice and absurdity of taxing municipalities, thereby creating a vicious system of multiple taxation. Provincial governments with sales tax of their own followed the example of the federal collectors, which means that the two senior levels of government have been taxing the taxes of local bodies. The unfortunate municipal ratepayer has had everybody's hand in his pocket.

In terms of cash the relief to result from breaking down this pyramid may not be great. Canada's 4,220 municipalities in proportion to their purchases will share about $5,000,000 amongst them. The important aspect of the change, however, is that it is one more piece of evidence of an approach under Prime Minister Diefenbaker's government towards saner taxation. It is a good start, and if Mr. Fleming continues to go through the entire list of tax items with his fine toothcomb he should find several other anomalies that should be combed out. There is, for one, the long-standing tax on margarine for the protection of the butter industry, which is in direct conflict with the policy of not applying sales tax to food.

How About the Rebate?

HEALTH MINISTER MARTIN'S announcement that British Columbia has agreed with the Dominion on national hospital insurance and that ratification may take place in time to have the federal scheme start on July 1 is welcome news, implying progress on a plan that has been long in the making. Mr. Martin's statement that there will not likely be changes in the type of hospital insurance given by the province probably refers to the fundamentals, because the Dominion scheme also contemplates coverage for diagnostic services and for outpatients. So it is reasonable to expect that the over-all costs of the scheme, whoever pays them, will be more and not less.

The change-over when it comes will transfer half the costs of hospital insurance from provincial to federal taxpayers in British Columbia, with a reduction in outlays by the provincial treasury on account of the cost-sharing in the scheme. One notes mention of the sum of $12,000,000 as the annual amount of the additional grant that will be paid to British Columbia by the Dominion on that account when the service is taken over. Whether that proves to be the size of the half-share or not, any such rebate to the Province will come in the form of a refunding to that extent of taxes collected by B.C. under the sales tax. A provincial refund to its own taxpayers will be looked for.

While it is true that the provincial sales tax includes items besides hospital insurance in social service and other outlays, at 5 per cent on the general business turnover it has become the chief source of British Columbia's internal revenue. When the Dominion pays its half of hospital insurance it will also have to budget for it. The same individuals in B.C. will be on both sides of that equation, as payers of the new tax and receivers of the federal refunding grant. Unless the refunding is passed along to them as provincial taxpayers, however, the result would be duplicate levies for hospital insurance coverage.

To set the public's mind at rest whatever be the means of accounting the provincial government should take early opportunity of indicating what readjustment it proposes to make with the subscribers to the new scheme. Obviously if Ottawa gives back $12,000,000 a year, or whatever may prove to be the actual sum, the Province cannot simply retain it. It could be handed back by means of an equivalent reduction in the sales tax from whence it arises, or directly in a reduction of the new levies. To absorb the refund into the provincial treasury without reimbursement to B.C. taxpayers would not pass muster, and there is no suggestion that is intended. However assurance is what is needed now.

A Successful Venture

VICTORIA should have permanent dividends from the current success of the Mud Bay reclamation scheme. The disposal of city garbage there behind a rock retaining wall has already stopped the dumping at sea of refuse which only drifted back to the beaches. This will give the City six months in which to prepare its permanent disposal system, either at a location in the Highland District or elsewhere. The Mud Bay fill will reclaim land with waterfront access to form a useful addition to the Songhees Industrial Reserve.

For the last reason especially, the improvement of Victoria's waterfront however slightly, the temporary operation is of much interest. A good deal remains to be done with the dishevelled sections of the inner harbor, and Mud Bay for long has been one of them. Only a few years ago there was much argument over squatters living there, but it was no place for anyone to live in that condition. The garbage fill is being soil-covered as it mounts, and permanent land suitable for industrial purposes will be the result.

Meanwhile it is a blessed relief to have Victoria's beaches free from bobbing tin cans and decaying vegetable matter.

Interpreting the News

Window-Breaking Reprisals

By ED SIMON

Canadian Press Staff Writer

THE shattered windows of the Danish and West German embassies in Moscow offer fresh evidence of the deep and unexplained feeling of uneasiness among Russia's rulers.

There can be no doubt that the mobs of demonstrators outside the two buildings acted under orders in a planned gesture of retaliation for similar activities outside Russia's embassies in Bonn and Copenhagen. Moscow is not noted for spontaneous political gatherings.

For reasons of their own, the Russians chose to single out the Germans and the Danes, although similar incidents occurred at their legations in Ottawa, New York, Montevideo, Buenos Aires and other Western cities following the execution of Imre Nagy and his fellow-leaders of the Hungarian revolt.

In their protests to the governments concerned, the Russians argued with some justice that the violence had been instigated by trouble-making elements. Most political riots are the product of a certain degree of planning.

But the Russians are equally aware that there is nothing artificial in the revulsion and anger that greeted their announcement of the executions. It cannot have come as a surprise to them that the bloody suppression of the Hungarian rebels remained fresh in the world's memory.

Where Stalin would have calmly murdered his victims and ignored the resulting outcry, the present Soviet leaders have given the appearance of being remarkably thin-skinned.

It is possible that Nikita Khrushchev's expressions of outraged innocence are going down well at home. But the reaction abroad, even from uncommitted nations and among the Communist parties of the West, makes it clear that he is pleading an indefensible case.

Few convincing explanations have been offered for Khrushchev's conduct. The suggestion that he was aiming a blow at the deviationism of Yugoslavia's President Tito and similar Communist heretics ignores the predictable stiffening of their hostility as a result of Nagy's death.

The move has been interpreted as a warning to Poland's Premier Gomulka and other satellite leaders against efforts to slacken the bonds of Russian control. But they already were aware of their precarious position, while the Hungarians themselves needed no fresh reminder of Russia's capacity for ruthlessness.

The possibility remains that Khrushchev's troubles arise at home, with the same class of students, intellectuals and minor officials who formed the core of the Hungarian uprising. Their activities, if any, would be well muffled by Russian censorship from getting abroad.

Ever since he attained power Khrushchev has demonstrated a shrewd ability to capitalize on every opportunity to strengthen Russia's international position. Only the existence of an unknown domestic factor could account for what would otherwise appear to amount to a senseless squandering of his gains.

'Old Glory'

If New Stars Are Added

IF Alaska statehood is approved, Old Glory's star pattern may change from eight-by-six stars to a constellation of seven-by-seven.

On the other hand, there's no law against a fancier design. If the government wanted to follow any of the numerous suggestions received from citizens all over the country, it could use a big wheel, a single huge star, an eagle, or the letters U.S.A.

How new stars should be placed is a question that has no prescribed legal answer, the National Geographic Society notes. No machinery exists for the redesign of the United States flag. When entry of New Mexico and Arizona added the 47th and 48th stars in 1912, President Taft decreed an arrangement of six horizontal rows with eight stars each.

Whatever the pattern, a new star would have to appear for Alaska. A law passed April 4, 1818, says that each additional state requires another star, and that "such addition shall take effect on the Fourth of July next succeeding admission."

Contrary to popular belief, the individual states are not represented by specific stars.

It might seem logical to have stars stand for states in order of ratification of the constitution by the original 13, and thereafter by dates of admission to the Union, but official actions and pronouncements do not support this assumption.

When the flag law of 1818 raised the question, a Congressional committee reported that the stars are supposed "to signify numbers and not local and particular sections of the Union."

The executive order of 1912 gave the final blow to the idea of star representations, for the 47th and 48th stars were put on separate lines. Previously the stars had been in six rows, the second and fifth containing seven stars while the others had eight. The 48-star flag simply filled in the short rows.

The United States flag has taken many forms since the Continental Congress in 1777 adopted a resolution calling for "13 stripes alternate red and white" and "13 stars white in a blue field."

With no specified design, some of the early flags had vertical instead of horizontal stripes. Stars were arranged however fancy suggested—circles, ovals, a circle around a star, a single big star.

Later even the number of stripes varied. When Vermont and Kentucky joined the original 13 states in 1791 and 1792 respectively, their demands for full flag recognition were met with a new design of 15 stripes and 15 stars. This flag, seen floating over Fort McHenry during the War of 1812, was the inspiration for Francis Scott Key's "Star Spangled Banner."

As state after state came into the Union, it was realized that the point of diminishing stripes would soon be reached. In the 1818 law, Congress therefore reverted to the former 13-stripe pattern, leaving only the course of stars to be dealt with by an expanding nation.

And what will happen to the old flags should a 49th star for Alaska (and perhaps a 50th for Hawaii) bring about a new design?

They will continue to be proper and usable as long as they last. For old flags, like old soldiers, may fade away, but there is no law saying they are obsolete.

Australia's Labor Laws

Legalistic Tactics Cause Delay

Fourth of a series of six articles by a widely experienced Australian journalist

By FRED NOSSAL

AUSTRALIA'S industrial arbitration system has survived many crises in the past mainly because labor and management have never effectively combined to bring about its destruction.

And yet both sides have agreed that the system has one great failing. It is too legalistic, they say. Law and lawyers are often blamed for many of its shortcomings—for its complexity, its cost, its inflexibility.

One of the biggest headaches in the nation's arbitration system is the constitutional problem. Law reports are full of High Court and occasional Privy Council decisions regarding arbitration. In fact, arbitration power has the distinction of being by far the most litigated provision in the Commonwealth Constitution. There are many reasons for this bulk of litigation.

In the first place, Australians live under a federal system which divides the powers — including the labor powers—between the Commonwealth and the six states. Federal systems of government are notoriously legalistic—as people living both in Canada and in the United States must know.

Secondly, the principal labor power here, called conciliation and arbitration, is limited because the fathers of the Australian Federation made a compromise.

Despite the serious strikes and lockouts in this country between 1890 and 1894, and the inability of the then independent colonies to cope with major industrial conflicts, the men who welded Australia into a nation were unwilling to grant wide industrial powers to the new Commonwealth.

Campaigns about the turn of the century resulted in the Commonwealth getting very limited powers which don't permit direct legislative control.

The Commonwealth must operate through the processes of conciliation and arbitration, and these processes must in turn be exercised to prevent and to settle "industrial disputes."

The disputes to which this power relates must be inter-state in character. The framers of the constitution no doubt thought that the power would be limited to dealing with a few exceptional cases, and that the ordinary control of industrial matters would continue to be dealt with by the state.

But centralizing forces—economic, political and social—worked during the 60 years that followed to shift real control of industrial issues into the Commonwealth sphere.

The price of this move has been the almost constant litigation whereby every aspect of the industrial arbitration power continues to be defined and redefined by the High Court and other tribunals.

This litigation has been fostered by both sides of industry, which have used the constitutional limitations as tactics in the general power struggle between labor and management.

The many prohibition actions brought by employers during the first two decades of this century clearly reflect their early antipathy to the system.

Of recent years the initiative has shifted to the unions which also are quite clearly not in love with all the legalisms of Australian arbitration.

Not only has the cost of all this litigation been great in terms of legal fees. Even more important, it has caused numerous delays and much uncertainty to both sides of industry and to the government.

To ease these problems some legal experts have suggested amending or replacing the present system by one giving the Commonwealth much wider powers in the industrial field.

But here again there are difficulties. Already federal governments of differing political views have sought to change the system by referendum, but each time the Australian electorate has defeated the move.

Management has criticized federal government attempts to get wider industrial powers. A recent meeting of the Associated Chambers of Manufacturers of Australia decided that the state parliaments had mishandled industrial matters far too frequently.

One of the directors of the chamber said parliament simply did not have the skill and experience to decide industrial questions.

"Usually when parliament brings down a law on industrial matters that law is challenged in the courts by one or other of the parties," he said.

The meeting passed a resolution urging the federal parliament to preserve the present system and to keep it entirely free from politics. The motion said the Chamber of Manufacturers would strongly oppose any referendum designed to give federal parliament power to legislate on wages and working conditions.

So the real situation seems that there is almost at any time, a strong feeling against the actual system in operation.

But this is coupled with a fairly persistent faith in compulsory arbitration as a method.

The Dots Have It

Mr. Massey's Tie Design

(From The Times, London)

VICEROYS, governors, and their like have many traditional duties to perform. To these the Governor-General of Canada, Mr. Vincent Massey, has added a new one; he has designed a tie for the use of his predecessors and successors and their staffs. The pattern is most engaging, as all will admit who have studied its picture, consisting of tiny gilt maple leaves and crowns disposed upon dark blue silk.

It is pleasant to think that Mr. Massey may have had in mind the tie, appropriately enough, of Vincents Club, at his old university of Oxford, with its silver crowns on a dark blue ground.

Ties, in this representative or symbolical sense, are of such a comparatively modern growth that he must be almost the first Governor-General to have invented his own. Had they existed earlier we can imagine Lord Beaconsfield in his days of youthful dandyism designing something in less impeccably good taste, perhaps, than these engaging little crowns, which are so charming because they are so minute. George IV would surely not have been contented with inventing a shoe-buckle an inch long and two inches broad, covering the whole of the instep. Indeed, there are possibilities in the way of a parlor game of inventing the sort of tie that historical characters would have designed, such as King Charles II for the members of the Cabal.

Mr. Massey's design is also interesting for a more technical reason in that it seems to mark the triumph, perhaps only a temporary one, of the dots over the stripes. It is not, we hope, offensive to apply this generic term of "dots" to small objects, heraldic or otherwise, arranged upon a background of a single color.

Nothing, of course can ever dethrone the stripes of illustrious tradition, such as the sombre and dignified red and blue of the Brigade of Guards, but human powers of invention in the permutation and combination of stripes have almost reached their limit. Moreover, many institutions of great respectability have ties of practically identical stripes, which they accuse each other of "cribbing." On the other hand only the most shameless would think of pirating, by way of example, the adorable little elephants on the tie of a golfing society from Ceylon. A wild rumor is going the rounds of outer society that the MCC have thought of an alternative to the stripes of red and yellow, which are just a little flamboyant for everyday wear. However, this may be a profane myth.

Meanwhile if there are to be dots Mr. Massey has in this matter set a standard hard to surpass.

The Packsack

Of GREGORY CLARK

THE warden of one of our counties within an hour's drive of the big city was motoring me around his bailiwick to show me how remarkably the New Canadians who have moved in during the past ten years have snuggled down.

Most of the farms they picked up are a little on the small side, by Canadian hundred and sixty or hundred-acre standards.

"To operate a farm prosperously by modern mechanical means," explained the warden, "it has to be a good big farm. These new Canadians have a different slant on mechanization. They use it, all right. But only when old-fashioned muscle-type farming is not possible. Mechanization to them is an aid, not a method. Most of these new Canadian farmers are intensive farmers, closer to market gardeners than farmers in our sense of the word. They have a very curious notion about their muscles. They still think their muscles are to be used!"

He pointed out farm after farm that had been taken up by new Canadians since the war.

We passed a tumble-down, unpainted, rickety cluster of barns and sheds around a beat-up looking farm house.

"Old Canadians in there, remarked the warden, casually.

He is very optimistic about the county's prospects.

Smart as an Ox

"Dumb as an ox," we say, knowing not oxen.

From South Africa comes the story of the ox sold near Kimberley which walked 40 miles home, passing through 10 gates on the way.

The ox had been sold and when it reappeared at the old homestead the first owner was so touched that he refunded the purchase price and it will spend the rest of its days on the farm it loved.

Letters to the Editor

Play and Education

Now that the public is realizing what it is costing for education with its disappointing returns, the following may serve as an illustration.

Leaving school in a prairie city, a girl of 12 went to live in a place where, although not in Britain, the schools are run on the British system. This girl had invariably brought home wonderful report cards and congratulatory messages from her teachers. Judge of her humiliation on finding herself relegated to the eight-year-old class. Writing so sloping as to be nearly unreadable, spelling deplorable, punctuation non-existent and a lack of general knowledge could not be overlooked.

Square dancing, drama, social amenities, and all the so-called gracious living nonsense were brushed aside. Further than that neat dress was a must. For the past year a very chastened girl has had hours of extra tuition, in an effort to keep abreast of her age group. Girls and boys are educated apart, which is as it should be, so there is nothing to detract from the business in hand and the girl has realized that education is not half play.

Pets in Summer

Now that the holiday season is here we would remind people to make proper provision for care of their pets while away on vacation. Cats in particular are too often left to shift for themselves, and when the owner returns from his holiday he is liable to find his pet missing or injured. Neighbors cannot be expected to assume the responsibility of someone else's pet; thus it is better to board it unless there is someone willing to be responsible for it.

Cats and dogs also suffer a great deal from thirst in warm weather, so that a bowl of clean fresh water should be available to them at all times, as they cannot always make their needs known or turn on the tap when thirsty as we humans do.

Corresponding Secretary, Cats' Protection League,

Cards on the Table

If the CPR no longer wish to continue to employ their boats in these waters they should at least have the courage to say so publicly and loudly and without any further shillyshallying, so that at least either the federal or provincial governments will have their opportunity to take appropriate action.

If on the other hand they are truly seeking an acceptable compromise to end the strike, let them be given a deadline in which to either accept or reject union demands.

It is time the cards were laid on the table and a "Yes" or "No" answer given as to whether this run is to be completely withdrawn or not.

Car Scows to Mainland

British Columbia came into Confederation under the agreement that a railway and wagon road would be built from Esquimalt to Eastern Canada. Surveys were being made for a line . . . that could cross on a bridge at Seymour Narrows to the Island.

Under these circumstances we are entitled to something better than being left for private ferry lines to handle our motor traffic. It is not practical to build a bridge as we are entitled to, but a near substitute is practical.

Build large diesel scows, two or three decks, designed for motor traffic, with no frills—built and operated as part of our Trans-Canada Highway the same as bridges, and financed the same way. Company ferries could still operate for those who desire more expensive service.

We cannot build a bridge from here to Vancouver but we can put in a good substitute at low cost and complete our Trans-Canada highway independent of any transport company. These scows could be built here.

Ottawa the Remote

Surely all your readers will agree that recent action by the provincial government under the sweeping powers represented by the Civil Defence Act to halt the threatened strike of Black Ball ferry employees, is both a boon and a blessing to this whole Island.

Once again the unfortunate fact has been illustrated that we here on the Pacific Coast of Canada have to look after ourselves to a marked degree where our welfare is concerned – and no matter what government is in power in Ottawa, surprisingly little heed is paid to events happening two or three thousand miles across the Dominion.

It can be counted as our good fortune to have men in authority in provincial government circles and municipal officialdom who are alive to this fact and never stop working until they get things accomplished.

Millionaire Recluse Weighed Each Loaf

KIRKLAND LAKE, Ont. (UPI)—Police reported yesterday that a colorful 89-year-old recluse was found dead in his log cabin at nearby Swastika.

George Ellis was generally regarded to be a multi-millionaire. But a neighborhood grocer said he refused to buy a loaf of bread before first weighing it to see if it was as heavy as stated on the wrapper.

Ellis was a former gold prospector and, in earlier years was an adventurer on the western plains and in the Arctic. He lived alone without water, lights or any other modern convenience.

Police said his cabin was filled with uncashed dividend cheques, bundles of mining shares, some gold dust and a coin collection.

Residents of the area said the dead man told them he bought Noranda stock when it was selling for pennies and that he collected the first dividend ever paid by McIntyre Gold Mines. He was also known to hold stock in the Hollinger Mine.

'Don't Take Oath Lightly'

Can't Have Two Loyalties New Canadians Told

A group of 22 new Canadians who yesterday took their oaths [illegible] were warned beforehand by Judge J. B. Clearihue in the courthouse that such an oath must be whole-hearted.

"First you must renounce your allegiance to the country to which you belong," said Judge Clearihue, "and after that you must take an oath of allegiance to Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II, Queen of Canada . . .

"You cannot be loyal to two countries," said the judge.

He added that he had come to the conclusion that many who had renounced their allegiance to their native lands did not really intend to do so.

"Certain things have happened in Canada lately which convince me that our immigrants feel they can have two loyalties," said Judge Clearihue.

He cited a recent welcome extended by "Russian-Canadians" to the captain of a Russian plane which visited Vancouver, and a second extended by Dutch Canadians to Prince Bernhard.

"If you want two loyalties," he said, "then you had better not take the oath of allegiance this morning."

He said that by taking the oath of allegiance to Canada, those present could be called upon in an emergency to fight even brothers and sisters in their native land.

Judge Clearihue reminded the applicants they were not asked to renounce their religions, their languages, their cultures, their arts or their native friendships; but must use the English or French language, raise their children in the English language, have them attend our schools, and obey all our laws.

Taking the oath were:

Mrs. Pauline June Beauchemin, 117 South Turner; Mrs. Margaret Bookchold, 819 Nelson; Mrs. Agnes Bous [illegible] Christensen, 462 Goward Road.

Vincent Chu, 1806 Government; Paul Chin, 1051 Queens; Irena Janik, 435 Quebec; Arnold and Inga Hauberg Larsen, 1526 Elford; Leonardus Joannes and Elizabeth Gerarda Notenbloom, 1957 Fairfield Place; Mrs. Gemma Simeoni, 2509 Prior; Mrs. Herta Theresa Hermine von Barloewen, 1551 Brooke.

Antonius Hubertus and Johanna Theodora van de Mortel, 2591 Cook; Pieter Anthonie and Aartje Schoeman, 1411 Mitchel; Rolf Lien Stabeck, 1430 Pembroke; Mrs. Magdalena Lenke Turie, 3816 Wilkinson; Conrad John Cervin, 270 Homer; Remain Leonard Verheke, 1407 Fort; and Cornelius Johannus Hermanus De Jong, HMCS Crescent.

Food Stocks Strengthen At Toronto

TORONTO (CP)—The stock market managed to squeeze out a second straight gain amid moderate trading.

Industrials led the advance for most of the session but faded in later-afternoon trading while western oils spurted ahead.

Foods and refining oils led industrials and some individual gains ranged to 2½ points, led by Trans-Mountain Pipe Line at 52. Dominion Stores, Anthes Imperial, Toronto Elevators and Ford A were other winners of at least a point.

Losers included International Paper, Dominion Steel and McColl. Algom added ⅛ at 17⅝.

McIntyre added a point at 81 in senior golds but Bralorne lost 20 cents at $5.45.

Western oils moved up in a solid line but changes were narrow in most cases.

Stock Prices Firm

MONTREAL (CP) — The market was generally firm at the close of quiet trading.

Changes were generally fractional but the oil and pipeline group furnished a few exceptions. McColl rose one to 58. Canadian Oil slipped one to 28.

Calgary Power dropped 1⅛ to 69 in a fractionally stronger utilities group. Pacific Petroleum was up ¾ at 18.

Rails Lead Advance

NEW YORK (UPI)—Rails led the stock market higher in moderately active trading.

Demand for carrier stocks developed after Senate-House tax conferees agreed to repeal the 3 per cent tax on freight transportation. The third straight weekly rise in carloadings also helped this group.

Selected industries showed numerous gains running to a point or more. A few were up as much as 3 points.

Chemicals were strong as a group, with Du Pont and Eastman Kodak up a point or more each. Chrysler was up around a point in a firm auto section. Eastern Stainless Steel ran up around 3 points at its high.

Oils favored the upside, with Richfield, Shell and Amerda up a point or more each.

Kennecott and National Lead ran up more than a point each in the non-ferrous metals.

Better demand developed for steel shares near closing time, on Wall Street belief that a higher price for steel eventually would result from the wage increase which goes into effect automatically on July 1.

Trans Mountain Rally

VANCOUVER—Activity was mainly in lower priced mining and oil stocks.

Royal Canadian Ventures was again top trader with 48,000 shares changing hands at 56 cents. Charter Oil, United Oil and Fort St. John were moderately higher.

In mines Bralorne slipped to 5.55 but most others were firm. Bethlehem was $1. Craigmont 2.84 and New Hamil 24½ cents.

Trans Mountain was the strong spot among industrials rising to $52 as the bill to permit the company to split its stocks was presented in parliament.

London Stock Prices

LONDON (CP)—Steadier conditions developed on the London stock market. Business was still limited, however, with operators cautious because of the delicate Middle East situation.

Gilt-edged securities opened firm but best prices were not always fully held. German bonds were firm in a quiet foreign market.

Dollar stocks advanced in response to the overnight improvement on Wall Street.

Grain Prices

WINNIPEG (CP) — Lack of important moisture in the western Canadian grain belt stimulated further aggressive demand in feed grains.

There was active trade in oats and moderately active trade in barley and prices were higher. Barley trade included a small export business to the United Kingdom.

The flax market was somewhat irregular. On some early selling prices declined but there were rallies from time to time and losses were reduced or erased. Some demand for flax was attributed to international interests and United States houses but commercial demand was not aggressive.

The rye market followed the upward trend of other grains.

CHICAGO (AP) — Nearly all grain futures prices had moderate gains at times but they ran into profit-taking at the higher levels.

Most of the time the fluctuations were within minor fractions of previous closes on the board of trade but wheat at one time was up as much as a cent or more a bushel.

Blow to Electricity Users

PUC Threatens to Ignore Dominion Ruling on Taxes

By HARRY YOUNG
Colonist Business Editor

The legion of B.C. users of electrical power who are threatened by a crippling increase in rates have reason to feel dismayed at yesterday's turn of events at the PUC hearing on BCE rates in Vancouver.

Dr. Henry F. Angus, PUC chairman, has stated that the PUC cannot refuse to allow BCE to provide for deferred income taxes, despite the fact that the Canadian government took this action in the case of Bell Telephone Company.

That there should be one set of rulings for a public utility that is controlled by the federal government, (through the Board of Transport Commissioners) and another set for a utility that deals through a provincial government (in this case the PUC and the B.C. government) seems paradoxical.

In British Columbia the costs already boosted against the electrical user in comparison with those of most other provinces, and any further widening of rates is certain to have an adverse effect upon B.C.'s ability to be industrially competitive with Canada, and the rest of its trading area.

In the light of the federal government ruling, why is the B.C. PUC taking this stand?

The Canadian government last April told the Board of Transport Commissioners that it could not allow the Bell Telephone Company to salt away funds for future income tax needs and that for the purpose of fixing new rates, only the taxes applicable to the current year should be an allowable deduction from profits.

The government decreed that utility users should not be called upon to pay the taxation for something which might happen in later years—perhaps long after they were dead.

This seemed such a reasonable state of affairs as to make it a generally acceptable procedure for all new utility rate applications.

However Dr. Angus indicates he does not see it that way.

He argues that the Canadian Privy Council is not bound by the provisions of the B.C. Public Utilities Act, and that the government of Canada is the creditor in deferred income taxes.

"If the government says 'don't make provision for payment' then the government presumably can provide for not being too harsh a creditor—it can give extensions or remit the debt. The PUC can give no such shelter against a future contingent liability and can make no provision for it," says Dr. Angus.

Whether Dr. Angus is right or wrong in assuming that the Canadian government would treat Bell or BCE any differently in the payment of their lawful income taxes is a matter which in the opinion of many may be regarded as outside the concern of the PUC.

What does rankle is that in briefs submitted to the PUC it was stated that if the PUC disallowed the BCE's provision for deferred incomes taxes, then there would probably be no call for increased electrical prices.

Surely it is the PUC duty to see that the public is protected, and if the BCE feels its position with the income tax authorities to be endangered, then surely it has recourse to appeal—but that is not within the province of the PUC.

DISCOUNT RATE SLIPS

The Bank of Canada rediscount rate slipped once more below the two per cent mark this week when it was quoted yesterday at 1.97 per cent, down .06 per cent from last week's level of 2.03.

The easier flow of short term money enabled the government to sell its 91 days treasury bills for an average yield of 1.72 per cent.

Despite the easing of money rates, the demand for Canadian government bonds was again weak, most of the middle and longer term securities being down about 2 points since the budget speech of June 17.

STEEL HIKE EXPECTED

Because of a wage increase on July 1, provided for in the current wage agreement contract between the U.S. steel companies and the Steelworkers of America, it is expected the price of steel will be increased next month.

Spokesmen for the industry indicated yesterday that a price hike was being considered even though the steel mills were operating at little more than 60 per cent of capacity.

TOP SPOT FOR DOBSON

Sir Roy Dobson, managing director of A. V. Roe Ltd. and chairman of its Canadian subsidiary, A. V. Roe Canada Ltd., has been appointed managing director of the Hawker Siddeley group of companies in London.

He succeeds Sir Frank Spriggs, who has resigned. The Hawker Siddeley group controls the Roe companies, and many others.

DROP IN NICKEL

The cost of nickel in Canada is down this week by 1½ cents a pound as a result of the increased premium on the Canadian dollar.

International Nickel of Canada has adjusted its price for consumption in the Canadian market to 70 cents a pound in order to level it off with the current foreign exchange level. The nickel price in the U.S. and other countries remains unchanged.

And Lower Legal Age

Jaycees Urge Lotteries

Resolutions by the Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce, calling on the federal government to lower the legal age limit to 19 from 21, and to sponsor state-controlled lotteries, head the list of resolutions to be considered by the national Jaycee convention starting here Monday.

Calgary Jaycees will urge that all nursing schools in Canada be made self-sufficient educational institutions.

A resolution submitted by Quebec Junior Chambers asks that the federal government pass legislation providing more control over foreign companies with investments and operations in Canada and more participation by Canadians in such firms.

The brief supporting the resolution on lotteries points out that these are a great tax saving to the citizens of countries in which they are legal since money derived is used for medical benefits for the citizens.

"Countless thousands of Canadian dollars are financing excellent welfare programs in foreign countries while Canadians are denied these benefits."

World Indians Meet

Indians of three continents clasp hands under the Cleveland baseball club's "Indian" at the 48th Quadrennial World Conference of Seventh-Day Adventists in the Ohio city. From left are M. D. Moses of Nagpur, India; Julio Huayllara of Puno, Peru, and James H. Johnson, a Mohawk Indian of Hagersville, Ont.—(CP)

Colquitz All-Round Award Won by Delmer Clark, 15

The highly-prized Colquitz trophy for the Colquitz Junior High School student rated top in all-round development in academic achievement, citizenship and extra curricular activity was won by Delmer Clark, 15, 544 Davida, a Grade nine student.

He also won the house activity cup for outstanding service in House 1.

Walter P. Jeune trophy for most proficient student in academic studies was won by Coralie Fessey, 14, of 581 Baxter Drive, who also won an award for dramatic effort.

Other Grade nine pupils who received special academic awards are: M. Adele Jones, 2nd; Marion J. Alexander, 3rd; Elizabeth A. Conway, 4th, and Delmer M. Clark, 5th.

Winners of Grade eight academic awards were: Michael J. Whitfield, 1st; Barbara A. man, 3rd; Sylvia F. Stephens, Jones, 2nd; Beverly E. Broom, 4th; Anne L. Ledson, 5th.

Be Different — Be Successful

It pays to be different. Look at the fields of entertainment, science, business. It's the individualist who is most successful, most wanted. But it's an art, as you'll find in "The Neglected Art of Being Different" in July Reader's Digest. You can master it . . . without worrying about "what people will say" . . . and you could profit by it.

Seven Die in Train

JOHANNESBURG (Reuters) Seven persons were killed Thursday night and 30 severely injured when a passenger train was derailed west of here, destroying five coaches.

A $200 Gyro Club of Victoria scholarship will be presented to Ronald Cook, son of Dr. Norman Cook, at the club's regular luncheon at the Empress Hotel Monday.

The scholarship is awarded annually to a student completing first year at Victoria College having high qualities of leadership, distinction of mind and merit in games.

Full Lists for Colonist Swim Classes

'We'll All Be Swimming by End Of August, Instructor Promises'

By MARGIE NAYSMITH
(Colonist Swim Class Instructor)

Just six days now and we will be in full swing at the Colonist swim classes at Elk Lake's Happyland Beach. I am looking forward to meeting a new group of friends this year—more than 1,500 of them—and by the end of August we will all be swimming.

It has been a big job placing you all in classes and please be sure to study carefully the lists in today's paper. We have done everything possible to keep everyone happy.

There are a few reminders I must pass on to you before we start classes.

Don't forget to get your mothers to give you a bag of some kind that will hold your clothes when you put on your swim suits. This will make it much easier for you, and me, to find your clothes when it comes time to dress. Two paper shopping bags, one inside the other would be just fine.

Now the most important reminder!

All people who come to the class on the bus will have to return to the city on the same bus, unless they have a signed note from a parent to say differently. No exceptions will be made. I am sure you will all understand how important this is.

All those going by the bus to Elk Lake will have to board it at the Coach Lines depot at the times listed for their classes. There will be no pickups along the way.

. . . a few reminders

And kiddies, please leave your mothers at home. We are going to get you used to the water and then we will invite your mothers and dads out to watch you swim.

We are going to have lots of fun at Elk Lake. First of all we will learn how to breathe in the water and not be afraid of getting our faces wet. Then we will learn to glide and use our feet, or as I prefer to call them, your motors.

This year I will have extra help at the beach and each group of 15 kiddies will have an instructor to personally help it along.

The beach is bigger and better this year and I am counting on lots of fun. We will include play periods for each class.

See you next week at Elk Lake.

System Didn't Work

GLASGOW, Scotland (UPI)—Horseplayer Michael Jeremy Bland Harder-Parry was different. He had a system for beating the bookies, not the horses.

He simply picked his winners (eight in one day) after the races, then sent them along with a $5 bet to a bookmaking firm in a pre-post-marked envelope.

His bogus winning total on his first try last Oct. 4 would have been $1,079,071.60 but the legal limit on pay offs would have limited this to $2,800.

Glasgow bookmakers William Hill, Ltd., suspicious of a bet received late with eight winners in eight tries asked for a police investigation instead of paying off.

Sheriff's court here, sentenced 25-year-old former army lieutenant Harder-Parry yesterday to six months in prison for attempted fraud.

Moore to Defend In Marathon Run

Jim Moore, 22-year-old Victoria runner attending UBC, will be seeking a repeat win when the second annual Sooke Marathon is held July 18.

Moore won the Butler trophy last year, finishing the 23-mile grind in two hours and 41.42 minutes.

The marathon, which will be held as a prelude to the Sooke Day celebrations, is the only run of its type held in British Columbia.

Providing stiff opposition for Moore will be a pair of veteran Victoria runners—Gordon Hartley and Cliff Salmon—who finished second and third, respectively, in last year's race.

Also entered in the grind which starts at 5:30 p.m. in front of the City Hall and finishes at the Sooke flats, are veteran Edo Vanni and highly-regarded Bill Gilham of Vancouver.

Officials are confident that this year's entry will surpass the field of 11 that competed in last year's race.

Entries can be sent to Eric Butler, R.R. No. 2, Victoria.

Remember When:

Chuck Campbell, former Canadian and United States amateur single sculls champion, qualified 22 years ago today to represent Canada at the Olympics in Berlin. But in the Olympics final, won by G. Schaefer of Germany, the Canadian placed fourth.

Browne-Cave Heads City Tennis Group

Wilmot Browne-Cave of the Victoria Lawn Tennis Club has been named chairman of the Victoria City hardcourts tournament committee which will draw up plans for the annual championships here July 5-13.

Two members from each of the Victoria, B.C. Electric, Camosun and Langford clubs make up the committee. Also named were Elsie Cooley, Dick Morriss, Charlie Clarke, Dick Gilbert, Bill Gale, Bob McConnell, Bob Peskett and Ivan Temple.

The Langford club will be represented in the tournament this year for the first time and committee officials expect a good-sized entry in all five events — men's and ladies' singles and doubles, and mixed doubles.

Entry deadline has been set for July 4 at 7 p.m.

Wins at Colwood

Mrs. H. G. MacKenzie won the silver division of the par competition at the Royal Colwood Golf Club yesterday.

Bronze division winner was Mrs. M. I. Grant.

The first modern-type rodeo, with prizes for cowboys, is believed to have been held at Pecos, Texas, in 1883.

this jumbo-size AUTOMATIC WASHER
● NOW IN OVER HALF A MILLION HOMES ●

MATCHING DRYER AVAILABLE FOR ONLY $249.00
★ WASHES MORE AT A TIME
The G-E washer has over 50% more clothes capacity than many other automatics. In one load you can do a big 10-pound wash that might otherwise take two separate loadings in smaller capacity washers — thus saving both water and time.
★ SAVES GALLONS OF HOT WATER
Touch the G-E automatic "water-saver" pushbutton to select water level for each wash load. Resets automatically after each wash.
★ GETS MORE DIRT OUT
Piece by piece, your wash is dipped, flexed and thoroughly cleaned by the G-E Activator Action.
★ FILTERS OUT LINT AND SAND
The G-E Filter-Flo system means that five times during washing, all the water goes through the filter. Leaves behind the lint, sand and soap scum that can mar your wash.
★ 5-YEAR WARRANTY
A one-year written warranty covers the entire washer, and an additional four-year warranty applies to all sealed-in transmission parts.
Your old washer worth at least $100.00

Braves Again Lose; Giants, Cards Gain

San Francisco Giants, who owe their third-place position in the National League largely to the sparkling play of their rookies, relied on the strong left arm of veteran Johnny Antonelli last night to start a new win streak.

And Antonelli, one of the National League's best when he's right, answered the call in convincing fashion, scattering seven hits as the Giants defeated the Cincinnati Redlegs, 5-1.

The win, Antonelli's eighth against five losses, marked the first time the Giants have been able to put together a winning streak in more than a month and moved them within one and one-half games of the staggering Milwaukee Braves.

While Antonelli was checking the Redleg batters, rookie first baseman Orlando Cepeda crashed his 15th home run of the season, scoring two teammates ahead of him in the eighth inning.

St. Louis Cardinals also moved within a game and one-half of the Braves, rallying for six runs in the last three innings to beat Pittsburgh Pirates, 6-2, for their sixth straight win. It was the seventh time in succession that the Cards have defeated the Pirates.

FIRST HOMER

In the other National League game, Don Drysdale waged a personal war against the Milwaukee Braves, taming the league leaders on eight hits and belting his first home run of the season off loser Lew Burdette.

Ted Williams, once most-feared batter in the American League, showed some of his old form yesterday, hammering his ninth home run of the year to give the Boston Red Sox a 2-1 victory over the Cleveland Indians.

Williams, who also connected for a single, raised his batting average to .299, high for the season.

Southpaw Jack Harshman, another veteran who has returned to brilliant form, hurled his third shutout of the season in pitching the Baltimore Orioles to a 2-0 win over Detroit Tigers.

Harshman's victory was his first in his last seven decisions and squared his record for the season at 6-6.

In other American League action, relievers Bobby Shantz and Art Ditmar held the White Sox scoreless for the last two and two-thirds innings to preserve a 4-3 victory for the New York Yankees and starter Johnny Kucks.

Kansas City defeated Washington, 8-6, on Hector Lopez' third homer of the game in the 12th inning.

Vancouver Island salmon-hunters can spread out a bit now. Until recently, the only consistently-good salmon fishing was to be found in Saanich Inlet or off Victoria but the past week or 10 days has brought in some excellent reports from Up-Island resorts and fishing camps.

Yesterday brought the news that big springs were showing off Bates Beach in fair numbers for the first time this year. One boat came in with 28 and 18-pounders and there were several other stories of success. In the same area, anglers have been having good luck with big springs off Little River, fishing from either King Cohoe Resort or the Little River Fishing Camp.

Further north, coho fishing has been good for boats out from Oyster Bay and Shelter Bay and there has been improvement at Campbell River. When fish aren't out, in front, anglers have been scoring off Cape Mudge.

And boats out from Miracle Beach have been coming back with coho in the four-to-six-pound class.

Qualicum Beach and French Creek have fair fishing both for coho and spring salmon and Clayton's Fishing Camp near Northwest Bay was able to report its best fishing of the year this week.

In south Island waters, the most consistent fishing is undoubtedly in Saanich Inlet, which is rated as good with a good concentration of springs between four and 10-pounds and enough larger than 10 pounds to encourage a try. Stan Williams reports he ran into a concentration of coho off the Mill Bay marker on Wednesday but found being by himself a bit of a handicap, losing six of the seven hooked.

Oak Bay waters give the chance of a big one and there are a few coho. It has slowed a bit off Sidney Spit but a few salmon are still being taken there and there should be every chance of action off Sooke or William Head.

A campaign to convince Vancouver Island residents that they could do a lot for themselves by spending their 1958 holidays on Vancouver Island seems to me a project well worth the attention of the chambers of commerce and other organizations which try to do what they can for the economy of the Island.

It's not being realistic to maintain that the strike which has cut off CPR boat service between the Island and the Mainland hasn't done much harm. One needs only to talk to the proprietors of motels, hotels, boat rentals and other businesses which depend on tourist traffic for success to realize that instead of the bumper tourist season they were expecting for centennial celebrations they will have what may be their poorest post-war year.

If the strike should be settled by July 1 as has been hoped, it will undoubtedly help some but it is a fact that much of the damage has been done and that many hundreds who planned to spend their holidays here have made other plans because of mistaken fears that we were isolated.

In any event, Up-Island tourist resorts have plenty of vacancies and it would be a big boon for owners if some of the slack was taken up by Island residents, many of whom don't realize just what Vancouver Island can offer in the way of a holiday. This could be a trying summer and keeping Vancouver Island money on Vancouver Island certainly can't do anything but help.

The Ocean Boulevard Cafe, which is at the Metchosin end of the Esquimalt Lagoon, is a new weigh-in station for The Daily Colonist King Fisherman Contest. There's a launching ramp there, too, for the use of anglers who like to fish Macaulay Point or Albert Head.

And for anglers who keep boats in Cadboro Bay or launch at Ten Mile Point, the Cadboro Bay Cafe will weigh in salmon for the King Fisherman Contest.

First VMD fishing derby will be held in Saanich Inlet on Sunday, July 13, and officials report that 600 tickets have already been sold.

The derby is not confined exclusively to VMD employees but a VMD employee must be present in each boat which has anglers taking part in the competition.

Rules used in Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers Association derbies will apply for the VMD derby. Fishing will start at dawn and fish must be at the three weigh-in stations—Hall's Boathouse, the Anchorage Boathouse and Creed's Landing—by 2 p.m.

There will be more than $800 in prizes, including six consolation prizes topped by a complete camping outfit of a 9x12 tent, two sleeping bags, two air mattresses and a Coleman cooler, lantern and stove.

Top fishing prize is a complete salt-water fishing outfit consisting of a glass rod, Peetz recorder reel, wire line, tackle box full of weights and lures, and a net. Second prize is a transistor radio and third prize a Coleman stove, lantern and cooler.

In addition, there will be about 30 valuable hidden-weight prizes. Prizes will be presented by H. S. Hammill at the Anchorage Boathouse starting at 4 p.m.

Salmonbellies Laced by Pils

Vancouver's surprising Pilseners, breaking loose for eight consecutive goals in the second half, walloped New Westminster Salmonbellies at Queen's Park Arena last night to move within one point of first place in the Inter-City Lacrosse League.

The Pils, highest-scoring club in the league, were led by husky Bill Barbour in picking up their first win in six starts against the pace-setting Salmonbellies. Barbour, playing his second game since sitting out a 10-game suspension, fired two goals and added three assists.

	P	W	L	T	GF	GA	Pts

Vancouver	16	8	7	1	176	164	17
VICTORIA	14	7	7	0	120	134	14
Nanaimo	14	5	8	1	138	134	11

Last night's score: Vancouver 10 at New Westminster 4.
Next game: Saturday, VICTORIA at Nanaimo.

More than 2,100 fans watched the Salmonbellies get away to a good start with two quick goals in the first period. But Pils scored once in the first frame and were trailing only by 3-2 at half-time.

Then the Vancouver club unleashed a tremendous third-quarter offensive, scoring six straight goals while blanking the Salmonbellies. Pilseners kept up the attack and scored twice more in the final frame before Cliff Sepka broke through for the losers with less than two minutes remaining.

Gordie Gimple and Bill Chisholm each scored twice for Pilseners while Ivan Stewart, Jack Bionda and Rudy Reisinger got the other New Westminster goals. Bionda's goal was his 47th of the season and he added his 18th assist.

Vancouver pulled three points ahead of Victoria Shamrocks but the Irish get a chance to close the gap when they tackle Nanaimo at the up-Island centre Saturday night. A Nanaimo win would leave only five points separating the clubs.

Past Season Curling's Best; Hodgson Elected President

Charlie Hodgson was elected president of the Victoria Curling Club at the annual meeting held last night. He succeeds Ernie Gordon.

Glen Walkey and Gerry Walls were elected as first and second vice-presidents, respectively.

Elected to two-year terms as directors were Don Fisher, Ralph Schmidt, Bill Purdy and George "Squib" Thomson. Elected to one-year terms as directors were Morley MacDonald and Sid Thomson.

Members present also voted unanimously to make George Tucker an honorary life member. Mr. Tucker, a former club president and chairman of the Brier Playdowns Committee, is the fifth member so honored. Previously elected honorary life members are W. J. "Bill" Hyde, Max Zabel, Mark Trueman and Gerry Lauder.

Annual reports submitted showed that the 1956-57 season was the most successful in club history.

The financial report disclosed that the club had made an operating profit of $23,672.76 during the past fiscal year and that there was a net profit of $185.56 after deduction of bond interest, bank interest and charges amortization and depreciation.

SUMMER 'SPIEL

Members were also informed that the annual summer bonspiel would be held over the Labor Day weekend for the second year in a row with one major change.

In past years, the summer bonspiel was open to mixed rinks with no stipulations as to the number of male and distaff curlers. This year, rinks must consist of two men and two women, but there is no stipulation on what positions must be played.

Entry limit is 64 rinks and it was reported that approximately 30 rinks have already made entries. Curling will likely start on the evening of Friday, August 29 and end on Monday, September 1.

Mrs. Knox Gets Revenge

Mrs. Todd Ousted In B.C. Golf Play

VANCOUVER—Mrs. W. Knox of the Marine Drive Golf Club scored a revenge victory here yesterday as she upset Mrs. Margaret Todd of Victoria, 3 and 2, in the semi-finals of the B.C. women's closed championships at Marine Drive.

In the other semi-final, Colleen Smith of Point Grey, who beat Mrs. Joan Lawson of Victoria in the 1956 final at Gorge Vale, advanced to today's 36-hole showdown by downing Mrs. Margaret Hutton-Potts of Marine Drive, 3 and 2.

It was sweet revenge for Mrs. Knox, a two-time Vancouver City champion seeking her first provincial title. The veteran Vancouver golfer had twice been ousted by Mrs. Todd in the provincial semi-finals.

Mrs. Knox played some sparkling golf on the front line, firing a 39 which included five one-putt greens, and holding a three-hole lead at the turn.

SCRAMBLY ROUND

Mrs. Todd, scrambling most of the way, won the 10th but dropped three holes behind again when she took an eight on the 12th hole. The 13th was halved with sixes but Mrs. Todd took a three-over-par six on the 14th when she hit into two bunkers, and the match ended on the 16th.

The other semi-final match was close for the first nine with Miss Smith taking a one-hole edge. Mrs. Hutton-Potts squared the match at the 10th but lost the 11th, 13th and 16th holes.

Ladder Derby

Only two fish were entered in the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association ladder derby yesterday, bringing the number of claimed rungs to 14 with three days left in the sixth qualifying week.

Rung holders:

Baseball Leagues Set 'Benefit Day' Sunday

The Victoria Senior Amateur Baseball League and Victoria's Babe Ruth Leagues will stage a benefit "day of baseball" Sunday at Royal Athletic Park with all proceeds going to the Beeckman family.

Two Babe Ruth teams will play at 1.30 p.m. and two Victoria Senior Amateur League all-star clubs will take to the diamond at 3.30 p.m.

Between the two games, starting at about 2.30 p.m., drill teams and bands will put on an exhibition for the fans.

In last night's Victoria Senior Amateur League action, Eagles and league-leading Wakeman & Trimble were tied 3-3 in the bottom of the sixth inning when rain postponed play.

Eagles had the bases loaded with only one out when play was stopped. The game will be continued from that point on July 1.

Two Stock Car Meets

Smith Gets Chance To Pad Point Lead

Al Smith, currently leading the race for the individual point title, will have two chances to add to his lead when two stock car meets are staged at Western Speedway Saturday and Tuesday.

Both meets will get under way at 7.30 p.m.

The regular weekly meet Saturday night will feature a demolition race, an "anything goes" scramble that allows practically everything with the exception of headon crashes.

Phil Headly, the official Vancouver Island Track Race Association starter, is rated the favorite for Saturday's race. He has been a consistent demolition race winner in previous years.

Highlight of Tuesday's meet will be a 1-lap dash for the Roy White Memorial trophy, which along with the Gold Cup and Island championships comprise Vancouver Island's "big three" racing events.

White, well known as a driver and starter for the B.C. Automotive Association, was killed three years ago [illegible] with a [illegible] construction crew on the Malahat.

Smith, who has chalked up three straight [illegible] goes into Saturday's races with a total of 85 points while Dick Varey holds down second place with 71 points.

Lambert Brooks is third with 65½ and Dave Cooper, last year's point champion, is fourth with 57½ points.

Also in the top 10 are Digger O'Dell, [illegible] Chuck Henne, [illegible] Dick Willoughby, Ed. Tempe, [illegible] Larry Van Humbeck, each with 41 points, and [illegible] Hank Nelson with 37 points.

Hugh Humphrey, driving a 1931 Ford with a rebuilt 1948 motor, will make his first appearance of the season this weekend in an attempt to break Doug Rose and Dave McClellan's domination of the jalopy races.

Jalopies, which are restricted to first-year drivers, have been gaining in popularity and the competitors have increased from five at the beginning of the season to 12 at the present time.

Minor Baseball

Gary Lech's five-hit pitching performance gave IWA a 8-2 win over Individuals last night in Layritz Little League action at Layritz Park.

Lech chalked up 11 strikeouts in the six-inning game and issued only one walk.

Losing pitcher George Foltz turned in a sharp effort in defeat, giving up only four base hits. He struck out 11 and walked two.

In Lake Hill Little League play, Steve Peddle tossed a one-hitter as Adanacs defeated Gordon's Sports, 9-2.

Indians Fire Bragan—Name Gordon Manager

Controversial Bobby Bragan, who had managed to keep Cleveland near the .500 mark despite the loss of key players through injuries, was fired yesterday by the Indians and immediately replaced by former American League infielder Joe Gordon.

The 43-year-old Gordon, who has been selling insurance in California, will take over today.

Gordon, one of the sparks in Cleveland's 1948 drive to the pennant and world series championship, managed San Francisco to a Coast League pennant last year but refused to go to Minneapolis when the team was shifted there this year in the big shuffle of western franchises.

Bragan, under fire for much of the 1958 season, was hired by Hank Greenberg just before the ex-general manager was given his walking papers last winter. Current general manager Frank Lane announced the firing.

Bragan was the second American League manager to be fired this season, Jack Tighe getting the gate at Detroit. The Indians, along with the rest of the American League clubs, are well off the pace being set by the New York Yankees.

Australia's high-ranking Mal Anderson and Neale Fraser, Sweden's Sven Davidson and Kurt Nielson of Denmark all had easy victories yesterday as the Wimbledon tennis championships moved into the third round.

Christine Truman, Britain's great hope for the ladies' singles title, used her tremendous reach advantage for a 6-3, 6-1 victory over Jill Rook, a fellow Briton. Defending champion Althea Gibson of the United States kept pace with a 9-7, 6-2 win over Yolande Ramirez of Mexico.

Four Americans were eliminated yesterday, including seventh-ranked Janet Hopps of Seattle, as the U.S. forces were cut to four men and four women. Eighth-ranked Barry MacKay and unseeded Mike Green, Budge Patty and Gardnar Mulloy were the Americans still alive in the 32s of the men's singles event.

Biggest upset of the day came when Chile's erratic Luis Ayala, fifth-seeded, was dumped by Nicola Pietrangeli, Italy's clown prince of the court by a 6-4, 6-4, 6-3 score.

Indifferent Performances

Sceptre Disappoints In Yacht Race Trials

COWES, Isle of Wight (AP)—Fifty-six years ago a three-year-old filly named Sceptre burned up the British turf with a record that has not been equalled.

The wonder horse galloped away with the 1,000 Guineas, 2,000 Guineas, Epsom Oaks and St. Leger—four classic victories in one season. Now Britain hopefully has borrowed her name for its entry in the America's Cup yacht race against the United States next September.

The America's Cup is the trophy British yachtsmen have never won. It was awarded by Queen Victoria for a yacht race off this island town in the English Channel 107 years ago.

The cup now is held by the New York Yacht Club. The Sceptre was built by a syndicate of British yachtsmen to make the latest challenge in best-of-seven races off Newport, R.I.

Despite 18 months of preparation, there are doubts at Cowes, headquarters of British yachting, whether the Sceptre will live up to the reputation of its four-legged predecessor.

The Sceptre has turned in some indifferent trial performances. Old salts have watched the yacht—one of the international 12-metre class—frequently outpaced by the pre-war yacht Evaine being used as a trial horse.

British newspapers have made veiled suggestions that the Evaine should be sent to the U.S. and not the Sceptre despite a reported £112,000 expenditure on the project.

But yachting journals have said the crew may deliberately have held the Sceptre back to familiarize themselves with having another large craft alongside.

Annual Trophy Meet Carded for Weekend

The annual prize meeting of the Victoria and District Rifle Association gets under way at Heals 303 Range Saturday morning at 9 o'clock and will continue through Sunday.

An entry of about 70 marksmen from most parts of the Island is expected to take part in the two-day shoot.

Biggest feature of the matches is the Daily Colonist Perpetual Trophy, which will be awarded to the winner of the grand aggregate. Another major trophy is the Albert Ashe Shield.

Last year's winner of the Colonist Trophy, Frank Morse, was top Island shot in provincial matches and will be a leading contender for the trophy again. However, Major "Badgie" Evans, who took the Ashe Shield last year, is not here to defend his shield.

There are other prizes for [illegible] shots, tyros, greenshots and cadets.

Range officers are Maj. Billy Wood and Mr. Bert Drysdale.

Name Two Finalists In City Net Tourney

Two finalists in under 18 singles play were declared last night as play continued in the Jaycee-sponsored Victoria Junior tennis championships at the Victoria Lawn Tennis Club.

D. Lawrence reached the finals [illegible] and will meet either Wendy Cox or Joan Woollison in the windup tonight. P. Macokes moved into the boys' final and will play either [illegible] Pollard or J. Peters for the title tonight.

Doubles finals in the under 18 age bracket will be played tonight with events in the under 13 and under 15 divisions set Saturday.

Garden Notes

Plants Deserve 'Dessert'

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

If the soil was given adequate preparation last fall or early this spring most of our garden plants don't need any supplementary feeding in their early stages of growth; in fact, they can develop a bad case of indigestion if you ply them with goodies while they are still infants. We are coming up to a stage of growth now, though, in which a few extra tid-bits will be relished.

Fruit is undergoing quite a strain at this season of the year. Tree fruits, bush fruits and even strawberries are trying to do two jobs at once: producing this year's crop of leaves and fruit and making the wood, canes or runners to carry next year's crop. You can give them a big assist with a little judicious feeding, and for this purpose I don't know of anything better than common saltpetre.

Saltpetre, potassium nitrate, is absorbed by the plants almost immediately, and your plants will perk up and go to town within a few days following an application of this chemical. The stuff dissolves in water instantly, something you can't say for ordinary bag fertilizers, and it's easy to make a solution of two level teaspoonfuls per gallon and pour it over the roots.

[illegible] gallons of the mixture applied mostly under the outermost spread of the branches. Dwarf trees will take five gallons, berry bushes 2 gallons each, and strawberries about 2 quarts per plant, poured very slowly over the root run so it sinks in rather than running away.

Gladiolus in their early stages need nothing but water, lots and lots of water, and if your soil drains reasonably freely you can hardly overdo the aqua pura applications. The time to wean your glad babies comes when the plants have made their fifth leaf, and this is the time when the first suggestion of a spike can be felt in the centre of the fan of leaves low down near the soil surface.

This is the signal to start adding a little something to the water. The same saltpetre mixture will give good spikes [illegible] given for the saltpetre.

Begonias, too, have a great fondness for fish in their diet, which is rather surprising in a plant native to inland mountainsides, but in their case I don't like to suggest any hard and fast dosage. These plants are more than usually subject to [illegible] and all sorts of unpleasant things start to happen if gorged with a too rich diet.

The trick with these plants is to go by the look of the plant. [illegible] per week: two tablespoonfuls of fish emulsion fertilizer per gallon of water, and if the foliage seems a bit on the pale side step it up a little. An apoplectic purplish tinge to the leaf is the signal to put the plant on a reducing diet, immediately.

Employees Had to Hew Line In Business World of 1880

MONTREAL (UPI) — In these days of the inflated coffee-break and the 37½-hour work week it is somewhat startling to imagine an employer cracking down on the office routine and personal habits of his personnel.

But one of Canada's oldest and most respected retail stores recently circularized its employees with a directive listing a set of nine rules for office conduct that at first left clerks open-mouthed in horror and indignation.

It read:

1. Office employees will daily sweep the floors, dust the furniture, shelves and showcases.

2. Daily fill lamps, clean chimneys and trim wicks. Wash the windows once a week.

3. Each clerk will bring a bucket of water and a scuttle of coal for the day's business.

4. Make your own pens carefully. You may whittle nibs to your individual taste.

5. This office will open at 7 a.m. and close at 8 p.m. daily except on the Sabbath.

6. Men employees will be given an evening off each week for courting purposes or two evenings a week if they go regularly to church.

7. Every employee should lay aside from each pay a goodly sum of his earnings for his benefits during his declining years, so that he will not become a burden upon the charity of his betters.

8. Any employee who smokes Spanish cigars, uses liquor in any form, gets shaved in a barber shop or frequents pool or public halls will give me good reason to suspect his worth, intentions, integrity and honesty.

9. The employee who has performed his labors faithfully and without fault for a period of five years in my service, and who has been thrifty and attentive to his religious duties, [illegible] will be given an increase of five cents per day in his pay, provided a just return in profits from the business permits it.

A closer inspection of the directive showed that the rules were actually the blueprint for working conditions in the same store 78 years ago. It was the employer's way of saying:

"Stop crying. You never had it so good."

The list of office rules was found by a company [illegible] an ancient vault still on the premises.

Donat Gambled Life on Film

HOLLYWOOD (NANA) — Great actor Robert Donat spent all his savings on his 25-year losing battle with asthma. It's only recently that top medicos have found this terrifying illness stems from nerves. It was because he needed money that Donat gambled his life on making "Inn of the Sixth Happiness" with Ingrid Bergman.

Zsa Zsa Gabor tells me she is having competition. "My daughter Francesca is madly in love with Trujillo." Zsa takes the 11-year-old moppet to Europe when she goes there in mid-July to star in "The Two Mrs. Carrolls" on TV. The British have a surprise coming. Francesca, a chip off the old block, is uninhibited and speaks freely.

When Debbie Reynolds saw Mrs. Dan Dailey in her sack dress for Dan's night-club opening, she quipped: "Gwen, do you have an interesting announcement to make?"

Clark Gable's agent called him when he heard Clark and wife Kay were planning to be at the wedding and reception of their beloved maid, Louise. "How come you're attending the wedding?" the agent asked, "when you won't make personal appearances for pay?" Wish I could tell you what Clark said! But P.S. — he and Kay were among the 1,000 at the nuptials.

Metro has a comedy winner in Glenn Ford's "Imitation General," in which Red Buttons proves that his "Sayonara" Oscar was not a flash in the pan. He's excellent. So is Taina Elg, really coming into her own after years of waiting.

Now that Milton Berle and his sponsors have agreed to [illegible] his TV show from Hollywood, the real estaters who have lovely, expensive houses to sell are chasing him as far as Nevada where Miltie is playing the Mapes Hotel.

* * *

Because English people send their sons away to school at an early age, Ingrid Bergman has decided to settle in Paris rather than London. And Roberto will wait until he is 15, she says, before she even considers a boarding school for young Rossellini. Ingrid believes it better for her and the children that they be with her on her jaunts to [illegible] and that country to make films. "I think she has something there."

* * *

Yvonne de Carlo regretfully has to [illegible] August for a date in Rome to play Mary Magdalene in "The Great Sinner." Husband Bob Morgan [illegible] 60 feet from a tower as a stunt in a Jim Arness TV show. "But I didn't go to watch it," shuddered his wife.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	3 ♠	Pass
4 ♠	All Pass

Opening lead: ♡ J

South opened the bidding with one spade. He bid his four-card spade suit ahead of his five-card heart suit in order to reserve a comfortable rebid of two hearts if North responded one no-trump or two diamonds. This turned out to be unfortunate for his side; the four spade contract was normal enough, but it would have been easier if played from the North seat.

Dummy's queen covered the opening lead of the heart jack. East played the king and South thought things over. A lead of clubs from West might prove embarrassing, so declarer elected to make certain West did not win the second heart trick. He allowed East's king to hold. This decision gave East a chance to make the winning defensive play.

East could see that there was little hope of winning a spade trick; it was apparent that South held the ace of hearts; the defenders could scarcely hope to win more than a single diamond. So, of the three more tricks needed to defeat the contract, two must come from the club suit.

East shifted to the club deuce. West won the ace and led back the clubs. Declarer had no better play than to finesse for the queen. But East had that card and West's diamond ace produced the setting trick.

Youths Charged In Extortion Plot

PETERBOROUGH, Ont. (UPI) — Police charged two 16-year-old youths Wednesday with attempting to extort $[illegible]000 from the Canadian Pacific Railway on the threat to blow up or derail a train.

Robert Ellsworth Barry and Wayne Elmer Dorrington appeared in court and were remanded until July 2 on $5,000 bail.

Police said that the railway received a letter a month ago demanding the money and warning that unless it was paid a train would suffer. Tuesday was the deadline for payment.

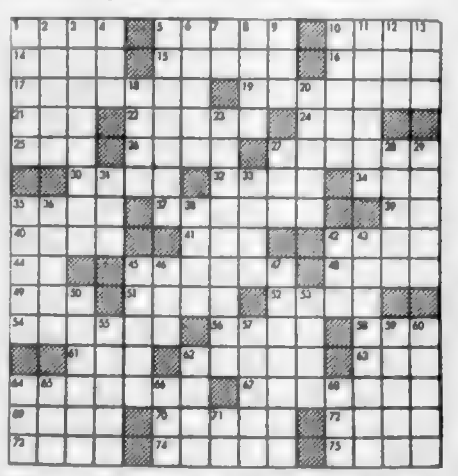

The arrests were made at a lonely spot in North Monaghan Township where the company was to leave the money.

No Answer On Runways

Mayor Percy Scurrah will write again to the deputy minister of transport, he said yesterday, to ask about progress toward extension of runways at Patricia Bay Airport.

The work was originally scheduled to begin in the spring. Three weeks ago, with no indication of a start being made, the mayor wrote to the deputy minister. So far, he said yesterday, he has had no answer.

Congress Knifes Switchblade Firms

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House cracked down on juvenile crime yesterday, by passing a bill to ban manufacture and interstate sale of switchblade knives.

The measure now goes to the Senate. Switchblade knives open automatically either by hand pressure applied to a button or by the flip of a wrist.

In recommending the ban, the House commerce committee reported that more than 5,000,000 of these knives had been sold in the last five years, principally to juveniles.

Balloon Boosters Windless, Admit Defeat by Bladders

Will Try To Sell Them

Greater Victoria centennial committee last night conceded defeat in its efforts to inflate 61 decorative balloons imported from London as a centennial feature.

PROPER LAST GASP

MAY SELL THEM

advisory committee chairman Sammon said.

Plans to continue the fight to keep the balloons buoyed up were abandoned after city engineer Garnett reported to the

VERY HOT SUN

had failed.

"We've had tough luck," he said. "You don't get that intense sun in London; they stay up three months there."

LITTLE TROUBLE

"I'll take the blame if you like. I thought of getting something out of the ordinary and I did waste," he said.

VERY UPSET

"It's something that should be straightened out," Councillor Sammon agreed.

Last Call for Changes in the New Telephone Directory

The deadline for the Victoria Telephone Directory is at hand. There is only a short time left to make changes in the YELLOW PAGES or White Pages sections of this important book. This is the final announcement of closing.

If you have changes to be represented in the YELLOW PAGES do so AT ONCE.

If you wish to change your White Pages alphabetical listing, tell the telephone company IMMEDIATELY.

AND WHILE YOU'RE AT IT . . .

Can people find your name in the phone book? Here are a few of the ways in which inexpensive extra directory listings can help.

Business Subscribers:
- List names, addresses and positions of key employees.
- List your firm name in more than one way.
- List the companies your firm represents.
- List your firm in out-of-town directories.
- List after-hours numbers of officials.

Residence Subscribers:
For a very low monthly charge list additional members of the family, permanent guests or boarders.

Why not order yours to-day?

TV TALK

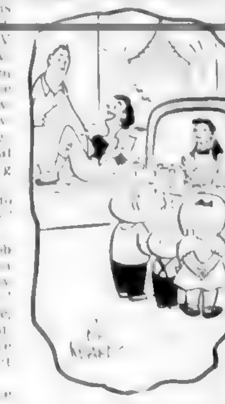

By Bruce Lowther

Oscar's Odyssey, chapter umpteen.

Pianist-satirist Oscar Levant, fired and rehired last weekend by the Hollywood TV station where his new show has caused his latest comeback, has switched to a new station. KCOP-TV manager Alvin Flanagan had fired Levant for actions ... ridiculing a sponsor's TV sets and rival KHJ-TV, but rehired Levant when he apologized. The pianist gained his revenge yesterday by moving to KHJ-TV, saying: "I have some emotional pangs about leaving Flanagan and KCOP, which have nothing to do with common sense."

NBC president Bob Sarnoff, in a speech "over the bodies of my public relations staff," has rapped the public, press and government, the sources of "more attacks on TV than at any time in history."

"As kids, remember how we enjoyed watching a cake being baked?"

There is not space here for all of his points, but regarding TV writers he asked: "Was most fair [illegible] be compared with a characterization of the entire TV season as degraded and with the [illegible] we are losing millions of disenchanted viewers? Was it not the fact that TV carried this past season the greatest number of informational, cultural and educational programs in history [illegible] in the backwash of things weary."

TV BITS: [illegible] today details [illegible] Monday will Matinee Kitty Foyle [illegible] Late gate and four new shows [illegible] Best movie today is Spiral Staircase [illegible] President Eisenhower's speech [illegible] July 9 [illegible] Vincent Price [illegible] 11 [illegible] Rose Franken will write the TV version of Claudia.

A new batch of old Columbia movies is due on TV soon, including some starring W. C. Fields, Deanna Durbin and Grace Moore ... MGM says over 30 of its old movies now are withheld from TV. These include "Mutiny on the Bounty," "Goodbye Mr. Chips," "Huckleberry Finn," "Easter Parade," "National Velvet," "The Good Earth," "Romeo and Juliet," "Tugboat Annie" and "San Francisco" ... Forty of the [illegible] Warners' dramas on TV three years ago will be brought back by channel 11 next season ... The Miss America pageant will be on CBS again in September, this time for two hours instead of the 90 minute efforts of past years.

Daily Astrology

FRIDAY, JUNE 27

Today's Quotation: "Defeat comes not so much from physical effects, as a from a state of mind which makes a man reduce or cease their efforts."—Gen. Charles P. Summerall.

Friday for Everyone: The basic pattern is constructive in a minor way, particularly in the morning. Those who are tolerant, ingenious, self-controlled will benefit. Be guarded against haste, discord, rashness, impulsiveness, however.

Look for Your Birthdate and Birthsign Below

March 21 to April 19 (Aries)—Gain through others; develop joint inner resources. Go slow concerning funds.

April 20 to May 20 (Taurus)—Seek ideas, inspiration, viewpoint of others. Avoid inharmony, chance-taking.

May 21 to June 20 (Gemini)—Adopt new working methods; attend to finances. Use tact with higher ups, co-workers.

June 21 to July 22 (Cancer)—Use creative talent, showmanship; gain some relaxation. Skip hazards.

July 23 to Aug. 22 (Leo)—Your insight, resourcefulness helps. Find the right answers. Go slowly with others.

Aug. 23 to Sept. 22 (Virgo)—Be friendly; seek added popularity. Use care in transit; be alert to recognize inexperience.

Sept. 23 to Oct. 22 (Libra)—Use ingenuity concerning finances, business, ways and means. Avoid extravagance, risks.

Oct. 23 to Nov. 21 (Scorpio)—Make the day count favorably relative to plans, future, distant matters. Harmonize differences.

Nov. 22 to Dec. 21 (Sagittarius)—Watch for ways to gain or to smooth your path. Use good judgment en route.

Dec. 22 to Jan. 19 (Capricorn)—Friends, associates, partners can offer good advice. Play safe with assets.

Jan. 20 to Feb. 18 (Aquarius) -- Profit through service, ingenuity. Be guarded against radical changes; exert tact.

Feb. 19 to March 20 (Pisces)—Try for realization of plans, trips, aims in the evening. Watch words, acts earlier.

Planning Ahead—Good for entertaining, sociability, etc.: July 4, 7, 14.
